1- Statue of Liberty

Located at the tip of the Ile aux Cygnes, this statue is an exact replica of the Statue of Liberty at the entrance to New York harbor. This bronze statue 20.5 meters high was made by A. Bartholdi and G. Eiffel in 1886. The American Community of Paris offered it to the City for the celebrations commemorating the centenary of the French Revolution.

2- Eiffel Tower

The eternal symbol of Paris, the Eiffel Tower was built by Gustave Eiffel for the Universal Exhibition of 1889. Its construction took 2 years, 2 months and 5 days, a real technical and architectural achievement. It rises to 324 meters and offers an exceptional view of Paris from the second and third levels.

3- Grand Palace

Built on the Champs-Élysées for the Universal Exhibition of 1900, the Grand Palais is an architectural Masterpiece covered by a metal structure and an imposing glass roof. It regularly hosts splendid art exhibitions.

4- Orsay Museum

Inaugurated for the Universal Exhibition of 1900, this former railway station was converted into a museum in 1986. The Orsay Museum now has the largest collection of Impressionist works in the world, with many masterpieces by Manet, Renoir and Cézanne.

5- Louvre Museum

Built in 1190, the Louvre was the home of the monarchy until 1678. The Louvre Museum is now one of the largest museums in the world and the largest museum in Paris. Its collections comprise 35000 works grouped into eight departments.

6- The Conciergerie and the Court House

The Palais de la Cité was the seat of power of the kings of France from the 10th to the 14th century. A part of the palace was turned into a prison during the French Revolution and Queen Marie-Antoinette was imprisoned here in 1793. La Sainte Chapelle du Palais, an extraordinary Gothic jewel from the 13th century, houses the Holy Relics.

7- Notre-Dame Cathedral

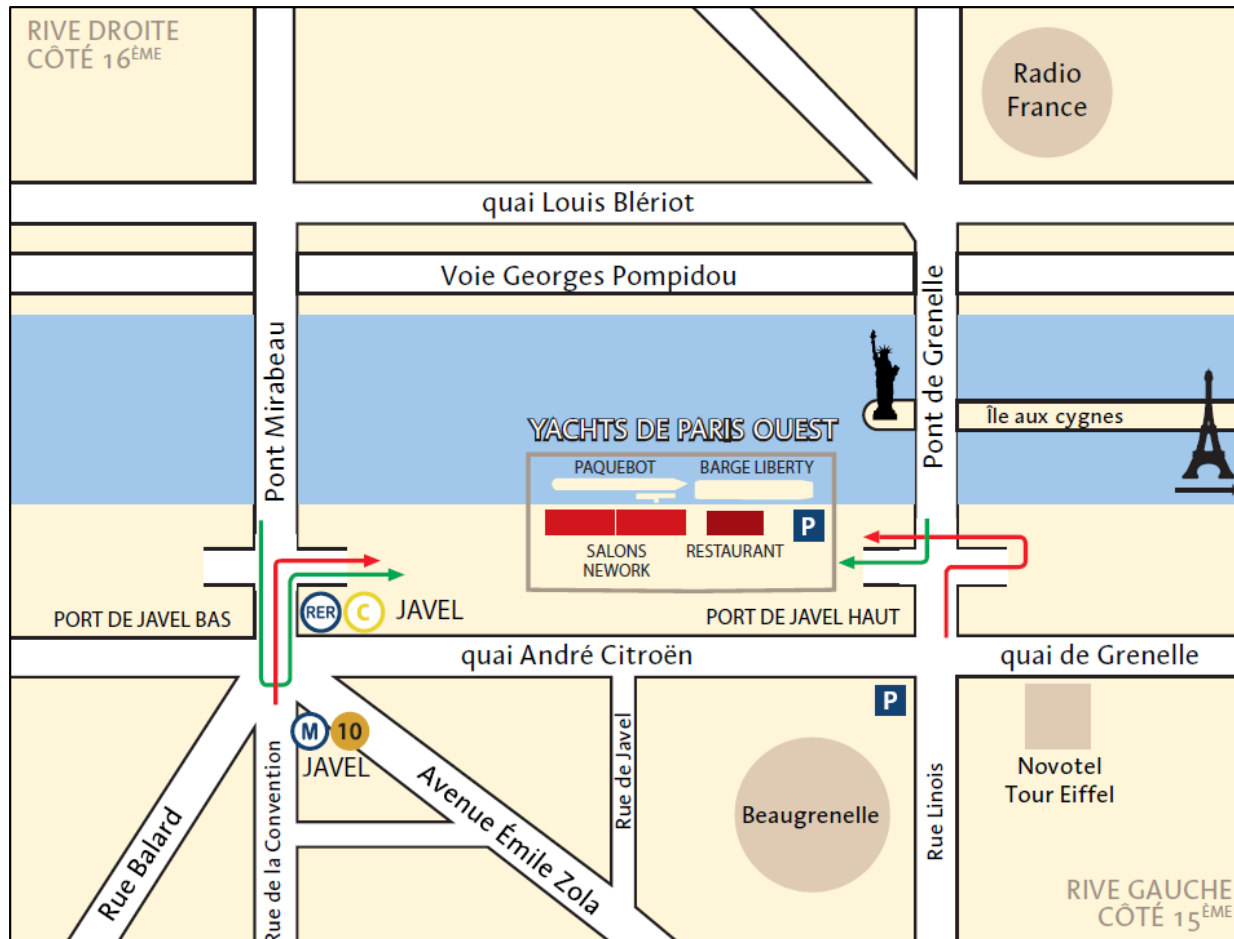

Located in the historic heart of Paris, Notre Dame Cathedral, built between 1160 and 1330, is a masterpiece of Gothic architecture, beautifully restored in the 19th century by the architect Viollet-le-Duc. Upon its completion, it became one of the largest cathedrals in the West.

You will be treated to a tour of some of the majestic Parisian monuments by night while enjoying a gourmet dinner.
